SURBURBAN AREA COUNCIL VOTES FOR SERVICE AREA

At an explosive meeting held on Monday night by the Carmel Suburban Area Council at the Mission Ranch, the formation of the controversial Monterey County Service Area No. 43 was passed by a large majority. The passage of this motion, defeated at the last meeting of this group, came as a complete surprise to most people attending the meeting which was held to hear the new Monterey County supervisor to the fifth supervisory district, Willard Branson, state the county's position.

A heated debate began when Richard Wilsdon, a local attorney, rose and said that there was a matter of old business to be considered by the group. He then moved for the adoption of the Carmel Suburban Area No. 43, and this motion was seconded by Marjorie Fontana. After much discussion as to whether or not this matter could be reopened, as well as on the proposal itself, the motion was put to a vote and carried by a 31-7 majority.

Following this surprising victory, Mr. Wilsdon made a motion for the nomination of new officers for the Service Area, naming Doctor Don Harrison for president and himself for vice president. This was also seconded by Marjorie Fontana, and brought on another heated and lengthy discussion. As a result the meeting was adjourned by the former council president, John S. Coates, before a vote was taken on this motion.

When asked his reaction to the meeting by the Pine Cone, Mr. Wilsdon said, "It is not my intent to run this group and I do not wish to do so. I think that we should let the dust settle and then have another meeting to try to get everything organized to the satisfaction of all those concerned."

Monterey County Symphony Review

by John Upton

Director John Gosling and the Monterey County symphony gave us an evening of violent contrasts Tuesday at Sunset auditorium, with a program ranging from the honeyed lyricism of Bruch to the stark, contemporary atonality of a commissioned work by orchestra member Dr. Charles Harlan.

Germany's Max Bruch wrote his first violin concerto, which we heard Tuesday, about 1870, when he was employed as Hofkapellmeister at Sondershausen. The work vividly demonstrates the genius for sweeping melodic line that was to earn him, as it had for Handel before him, the love of English audiences; in later life he was to be given the post of conductor of the Liverpool Philharmonic, and an honorary doctorate in music from Cambridge.

San Francisco Symphony concertmaster Jacob Krachmalnick, who was guest soloist for the concerto, played with such style and assurance that he might have been the composer himself, instead of a musician following the indications of a written score. With his brilliant, powerful tone and total musical understanding, Krachmalnick invested the work with magic. Particularly effective was the hauntingly lovely second movement, where a tender, melancholy motif is stated by the violin and echoed by the various orchestral sections. Here Krachmalnick's incomparable sense of phrasing gave him such authority that he seemed to be holding the entire orchestra in his hands.

At the end of the vigorous finale, Krachmalnick was greeted by such thundering applause that he had to take five curtain calls. This performance was a rare treat indeed; we may never again here this work played so beautifully.

In Mozart's "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin and Viola," Mr. Krachmalnick was joined by San Francisco Symphony violist Harry Rumpier, who displayed a warmth of tone and a nimbleness rarely heard in his instrument. This is surely one of Mozart's most likable works, filled with dignity and joy. Throughout, the two soloists carried on a musical dialogue that was like a conversation, between old, affectionate friends. In the charming allegro movement the exchange was spirited and garrulous, while in the lyrical andante one was reminded of two elderly gentlemen reminiscing about the pleasures of a distant springtime. The tenderness and restraint in this work are a lasting delight, and Messrs. Krachmalnick and Rumpier made us hear every nuance.

Conductor Gosling, who, with many conductors, believes that Mozart, with all his clarity and apparent simplicity, is one of the most difficult of orchestral composers, led his dedicated musicians through the "Sinfonia" in fine style.

Surprise of the evening was Dr. Charles Harlan's "Suite for Strings and Percussion." A commissioned work completed this year by the orchestra's erudite first tympanist, and performed for the first time as part of this season's "Exploring Our Orchestra" series, it spotlighted the tympani, snare drum, tenor drum, bass drum, cymbals, tambourine, triangle, maracas, bongos, xyloimba, bells, and chimes. The Rondo, with its atonal string passages, was perhaps the most difficult to grasp. (As one member of Tuesday's audience commented, "It isn't the sort of thing you can whistle.") While based on time-honored contrapuntal principles, it made use of such unfamiliar intervals that one felt somehow disoriented, as did Gogo in "Waiting for Godot," when he whimpered, "I don't know what to think any more!"

The second movement, "Fantasia," centered about an imaginative tympani-cadenza performed by the composer, in which all kinds of exciting things took place. Here Harlan took full advantage of the tunable qualities of the kettles, and gave us a vivid demonstration of their capacities: melody, dynamics, and startling rhythmical patterns. The suite concluded with a

Plan to Merge Sunset And Art Commissions

by Sterling Mummert

In spite of a post season rainstorm Wednesday night a full house of councilmen and residents were at City Hall for a prolonged session of business and general affairs. Following an agenda list of matters regarding P.G.&E., noise abatement, lodging permits, landscaping plans and others, the Sunset and Arts Commissions merger came up for consideration.

Regardless of any main interests of the members it was, in effect, agreed by all that art was, is and will be the dominant canopy comprising the giants of Carmel.

Councilmen Blanks, Whittlesey and Sefton spoke in favor and in defense of the proposal, also Mayor Grant who requested remarks from the audience. Councilman Norberg made an extensive request for a re-orientation of the merger toward favoring "creative and performing people" for the newly envisioned committee in preference to business men.

John Cunningham, member of the Carmel Business Association and former President of the Art Association, Mrs. Barbara Norberg, member and former chairman of the Carmel Arts Association, ex-mayor Herbert Herron, Kent Seavey, Curator of the Carmel Museum of Art and Mr. Ad-hoe voiced their opinions in this matter.

At the conclusion of the discussion the council voted in favor of the merger motion without amendments.

Time required for considering the merger buffeted a large portion of the agenda into an April 19 meeting.

William Sefton spearheaded a move to adopt the interim report of the special parking committee, for additional parking at Sunset and Public streets. He praised the committee highly for their sustained efforts over many years to obtain for the City a $12,000 facility. Admiral Fisher and Gene Ricketts appeared to give support to the measure. Following a prolonged period of comment by Council, the measure was passed subject to review and study by fiscal officials for estimating of cost of resurfacing the area, over objections of Mr. Norberg who thought it circumvented the master plan.

Other measures approved were: lodging permits and rentals, disposal of fill, capital outlay acquisition, tree removal, at the firehouse; landscaping the police station, TV cable franchise, a request for two weeks leave by Frederick R. Cunningham.

Resolutions passed near the session's end related to casual employment and Clyde R. Klamann.

It was recommended council members attend a Water Pollution Control Public Hearing, to be held April 14, 10 a.m., Seaside Council Chambers, by Central Coastal Regional Quality Control Board. Mayor Grant advised "eternal vigilance" for the entire Monterey Bay region to ward off potential dangers from this menace.

The balance of the items on agenda were deferred until the April 19 meeting.

Larry J. Larson Killed In Vietnam

Private Larson who was 20 years old, was born in San Jose and went to elementary school there and at Mission School in Carmel. His four years of high school were at Holy Redeemer College in Oakland. He had considered continuing studies for the priesthood at St. Mary's College, and was granted an unusual year's leave of absence so that he could make a decision. His teachers

History Will Come Alive Tuesday In 'The Rivalry' At Sunset Center

History will come alive as Abraham Lincoln (played by John Anderson), and Stephen A. Douglas (Steven Gravers) once again debate civil rights, states rights and Negro equality in a performance of Norman Corwin's "The Rivalry" on Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

The production, selected by the California Arts Commission to tour California, will be staged in Sunset Center auditorium through the joint auspices of Monterey Peninsula College and the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County.

Tickets, with all seats priced at $2, are on sale at MPC and at Central Box Office.

"The Rivalry," demonstrating the idiom and humor of Lincoln and the warmth and poignancy of the relationship between Douglas and his wife, Adele, will be enacted by a talented cast of the Players Production Company.

John Anderson is a prominent actor of stage, television ("Gunsmoke," "Dr. Kildare") and motion pictures ("Psycho," "Ride the High Country"). Adrienne Marden plays Adele Douglas. Other parts are played by Dorothy Joyal, Matthew Knox and David Banks. Roy Christopher has directed the production.

In writing "The Rivalry," Corwin was able to explore a gold mine of material furnished by reporters who covered the famous confrontations between Lincoln and Douglas in 1858. Shorthand records were made of the debates, and the experiment was watched all over the country.

Corwin studied the actual text of the debates, selected and dramatized them, interspersing them with warm and personal scenes away from the platform between Douglas and Adele; between Lincoln and Adele, and between Lincoln and Douglas.

Local Artist Creates New Forms In Batik

The ancient art of Malaysian batik revitalized with a new and modern flair for color and design is now on display at the Creative Arts of Big Sur in Carmel. This most interesting and difficult art form is done by Harry Conley of Carmel Valley.

"The art of batik is just gaining recognition in this country not only in the area of wall hangings but also in the fields of fabric design and household decoration," Susan Santos, owner of the shop, stated.

Conley already has had much well earned success in batik creation as he received two first places in the Monterey County Fair for textile design and has had one of his original patterns accepted by Cole of California for use in his designer's 1967-68 collection. He hopes to be able to go into the field of fabric design as a full-time project and has had many offers by interested clothing manufacturers. Among the other honors that have come his way since he started in this field, is that he has been asked to join the American Craftsmen's Council. This group includes artists from all forms of the creative crafts and membership is by invitation only.

"I am always designing new patterns in my mind be it awake or asleep," Conley commented. For his work he not only has his own studio but also raises his own bees for the wax that they produce which is needed in his work. He has also been asked to write a booklet describing his batik methods for one of the large dye companies in this country, but as of now, has no idea when he will have enough time to do it.

The stained glass effect that is produced by Conley's batik method is something that must be seen to be truly appreciated and it is now available at the Creative Arts of Big Sur for those who wish a most interesting artistic experience.

The Sur Coast

ANNUAL BURRO PACK TRIP

A dozen members of the Sierra Club and their guests took part in the third annual Easter Week burro pack trip into the Los Padres National Forest and Ventana Wild Area. The trip, sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, began at China Camp at Chew's Ridge on the Tassajara Road.

The hikers, each carrying a backpack with their own individual gear, were led by Elizabeth Fuller Jones of Carmel and included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wyatt and son Ky, David Wright and Tina Concolina of Monterey, Tim Hughes and David Elliott of Salinas, David Fairley of San Francisco, Pat and Paula Wilhelm of Carmel and Anthony C. Zulfich, owner of the four burros and a German Shepherd dog that accompanied the group.

A base camp was made at beautiful, broad Pine Valley, an area surrounded by a dense growth of Ponderosa and Coulter pines, extraordinary rock formations, pot-holes, caves and other reminders of the days when Indians made this their home. About a half-mile from camp a shallow cave shaped in a half circle, and immediately before it a natural bowl, made a perfect setting for the group's sing. A full moon added to everyone's delight.

During the six-day trip, the group moved out from the base camp to enjoy other areas of the Santa Lucia Mountains. One day, it was a ten-mile hike up to Pine Ridge for lunch and sweeping views of the Ventana, the Ventana Double Cone, Uncle Sam Mountain, Lucia and Pinos Peak, Big Pine and the distant sea.

Another day it was a dozen-mile hike up to Church Creek Divide and down to the Church Ranch and a close-up look at the caves, arches and unusual rock formations in that area.

There was an afternoon of cross-country following up a creek from the valley for over-looks into Miller Canyon, and down and across Pine Valley, an area that many on this trip have come to know well through trips over the years.

Other delights were the colorful slopes of the Santa Lucias with sky lupine just coming into bloom, a profusion of baby-blue-eyes, yellow violets, poppies, tidy tips, blossoming madrone and manzanita, the fresh new leaves on the wild rose, white oak and sycamore.

On this type of burro pack trip the menus are usually a surprise to most participants. Instead of the anticipated "one course" meal there was a balanced combination of fresh vegetables and fruits, meats, eggs, cheese, dehydrated foods, freshly baked cakes, puddings, soups and breakfast "hot fruit."

In addition to days filled with hiking, exploring and generally enjoying the loveliness of the beautiful mountain areas, there were tangible ways in which these conservation-minded members of the Sierra Club expressed their appreciation for use of these public lands. To help make Pine Valley and environs a little more pleasant for future visitors, members of the group dug a new garbage pit (since the existing garbage pits were full to overflowing) and deposited it in cans and debris left by thoughtless campers over a wide area of the valley.

Meeting On Narcotics

Judge Eugene Harrah, Monterey Municipal Court, and Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann will both speak on the subject "Narcotics in the high school" at a meeting at the Carmel Presbyterian Church, Ocean and Junipero, Sunday, April 9 at 7 p.m. All junior and senior high school students and their parents are cordially invited to attend.

PARTY PLANS . . .

By Phyllis Jervey

SPRINGTIME ENTERTAINING

Brunch with high style but low cost features Orange Sherry flip (orange juice, sherry and eggs) and fruit-nut muffins. The melon balls, or other fruit, to be eaten with the drink or later, stay refreshingly cool on a bed of crushed ice.

By Phyllis Jervey

Giving a party for 20 on a budget adequate for eight, was indeed a problem for two young career women on our Peninsula until they came up with a time-saving-money-stretching plan.

They discovered, as their guest list escalated, that it would be necessary to substitute ingenuity for dollars in their entertaining.

Sharing a nice apartment and a small food budget, the two attractive young secretaries on their first party venture, asked a few friends for Sunday brunch. Like springtime cleaning, the project grew. At first they decided to start with champagne — always so festive and elegant — then move on to ham and eggs in a favorite way, and end, dramatically, with fresh strawberries mounded on crushed ice to be dipped in sour cream and brown sugar. Then the guest total soared, and they found that the budget, once sufficient for champagne and other delicacies, was all right for a few but would not stretch to serve a lot more! Haven't we all experienced this misadventure?

Here is their solution. On their blender, they whirled up Orange Sherry Flips, a divine mixture of sherry and eggs, and these ingenious gals added orange juice for extra fillip. In place of strawberries, they used fresh melon balls. Homemade fruit and nut muffins were an added inspiration.

We suggest shopping around for fruits in season and combining the least expensive ones by slicing them in a compote.

This party was so successful the enterprising young hostesses plan to repeat it for another group of friends come next payday. Guests are asked for noon sharp. There is time for early church services, plus spring cleaning, and to take it easy with their guests. Bravo for entertaining on a shoestring!

Orange Sherry Flips

(Makes 2 drinks apiece for 20)

Four cups California sherry; 6 cups orange juice; 8 eggs; 1 tsp. salt; grated nutmeg; mint sprigs; straws.

Chill ingredients. Shake, or whiz in blender, until well mixed and frothy. Serve in pretty glasses and let each person grate nutmeg on top of their flips. Garnish with fresh mint sprigs. Serve with colorful straws.

California Fruit-Nut Muffins

(One dozen 2 1/2-inch muffins)

One egg; 1/2 cup milk; 1/4 cup California sherry; 1/4 cup oil; 1/3 cup chopped walnuts; 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour; 1/4 cup sugar; 2 1/2 tsp. baking powder; 1/4 tsp. salt; 1/4 tsp. mace, powdered (or cinnamon).

Beat egg lightly. Add milk, sherry, oil, currants and walnuts. Sift flour with sugar, baking powder, salt and mace or cinnamon. Spoon into greased muffin pans. Bake in hot oven (425 F.) about 20 minutes. Serve warm (these are easily reheated with a foil covering). Butter and currant jelly should be on hand. Make these muffins in several batches, also have English muffins ready to be toasted and buttered and served with marmalade, especially if young men are present.

For a relatively small guest list, a Champagne Brunch is actually not so expensive, especially if shared by two or four couples. With quite a wide range in price among our various brands of native California champagnes, there is one to fit each budget. Plan on a 25 oz. bottle for each three persons when it is served along with the brunch.

Now let's end up with an easy way to serve ham and eggs for a smaller party . . . anytime of day

Pringle Tells ACT Why He Is Running For School Board

Curtis Pringle, at the March 15 meeting of the Association of Carmel Teachers in Brey Hall at Carmel High School, was one of seven school board candidates who presented their views to the 65 teachers gathered to quiz the board hopefuls.

In his opening statement, Pringle said, "The most common statement made when anyone criticizes something is — 'Well, why don't you do something, instead of com-or night . . . after the movies or whatever

Ham and Eggs Delicioso

(Serves 4)

One fourth cup butter; 1/4 cup flour; 1 cup milk; 1/2 cup chicken stock (broth from cans or bouillon cubes); 1/2 cup California Sauterne or other white dinner wine; salt and pepper; 4 serving-sized slices baker or boiled ham; 8 eggs; 1/2 cup grated Cheddar or American cheese; paprika. (Increase amount if necessary!)

Melt butter and stir into flour. Add milk and chicken stock. Cook gently, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add wine, salt and pepper. Place a slice of ham in each of 4 shallow individual baking dishes. Break 2 eggs over each ham slice. Pour sauce over eggs. Sprinkle with cheese and dust with paprika. Bake in a 400 F. oven for about 15 minutes or until eggs are done as desired — probably less for some, especially men.

And let there be plenty of bread — white, whole wheat, low calorie and so forth to put into the toaster, plus jellies and preserves — and much coffee. To the tune of the hi-fi what a lovely way to spend a Sunday afternoon! You had better open some cans of chili con frijoles to stave off starvation as evening approaches and have "soft" beverages on ice.

plaining?" It is for this reason I thought I might be able to contribute my business experience to some of the school district's problems, and it induced me to run for the school board.

"Most men, when they are actively engaged in their careers, have very little time for anything else. I was no exception. Devoting time and effort to community office entirely on my own decision. The only thing I am trying to prove is that I can contribute something that will add to the future betterment of the school district, and the community as a whole.

"I am willing to accept the responsibility of a school board member, and feel that I will be fully repaid for my time and effort if I do a good job."

In answering questions, Pringle emphasized that the school board is responsible to all members of the community and that the board should exercise its financial controls more effectively.

Pringle was president of Johnson's Wax of Brazil from 1954 until 1961 when he retired. He supervised the construction, staffing and operating budgets of the Johnson Foundation's Brazilian Schools and for this work received the Brazilian government's highest award for an American citizen, the Cruzeiro de Sol. Prior to 1951, he ran his own construction company in Southern California and was manager of the Ford Brazilian rubber plantations. During the latter period he also established schools. In World War II, he was a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Campaign managers for Pringle are Dave Laing and Jack Chalkley. They are prepared to give further information on their candidate.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

SWIM CHAMPIONSHIP SATURDAY

"Rain, rain go away, come again another day" is one childhood rhyme that all the coaches at Stevenson were muttering this last week. Hopefully (for the athletes anyway) the rains will let up this week for a heavy schedule of events.

From last week, there were the following results:

SWIM: Buscher High of Sunnyvale, one of the powerful swim teams in Northern California, really put the pressure on RLS this past weekend by swamping them 70-17. Captain Tim Shea, Jim Merritt, and Pete Cowden all took seconds and the team took 5 of 7 thirds, but the heavily "senior" team from the North was strong in most events. Coach Jim Stam was not discouraged saying: "With our great showing by freshmen and sophomores, many who only lost by inches, we can anticipate a fine building season for the team this year." Next event is this Saturday at the RLS pool, where Stevenson will host the Far West Prep Swim Championship. The public is invited, with time trials starting at 10 a.m., and finals after lunch. Stevenson is the defending champion.

RIDING: Well, Mason Phelps

did it again with a sensational ride this past weekend at the Channel City National Horse Show at Santa Barbara. Riding his new horse "Footlight Jack," against 80 of the top Hunters in the West, he took second by just one slim point, and had the outstanding high school student ride of the day. Most of the entries were adults.

SPEECH: The RLS debaters wound up the season by taking second in the League in Sweepstakes, placing the team of Robert Howard and Terry Talbot in the semi-finals and Smith Dungan and Bill Atkins went into the quarter finals. The bright sophomore team of Eric Haas and Steve Dart just missed the quarter finals by one point, while Lonnie Foy and Grover Wickersham did well in the early rounds.

Next for the speakers is the League Championship at M.P.C. this Saturday starting at 8 a.m. Stevenson will send a delegation of 25 boys to compete in six individual events (Oratory, Impromptu;

ASSISTANCE WITH STATE INCOME TAX

Taxpayers having difficulty with their state income tax will be able to obtain advice in Monterey at the Franchise Tax Board temporary office.

An auditor from the Franchise Tax Board's staff will be located at the City Hall Council Chambers, 580 Pacific Avenue, Monterey. He may be reached by telephone at 375-6522.

Deadline for filing the 1966 returns is April 17, 1967.

tu; Extemp; Dramatic, humor and drama; Interp and Oratorical analysis. Phil Fleming will also represent the Monterey Peninsula in the Lions Club regional contest in Oratory this Friday in Santa Cruz.

CURRENT AFFAIRS: The results of the Time Magazine Current Affairs tests have just been received, as some 3,000,000 high school boys and girls competed. Tops for RLS was Ed Jagels with a score of 97 out of 100 to achieve excellent honors, while Claude Wynn, Donald Stillwell and Page Coleman were given honorable mention.

TENNIS: The famed tennis star Barry MacKay was the feature instructor at a tennis clinic held in San Rafael on Saturday. Mike Machette, Ken Drummond and Ed Scott, along with Coach Jerry Keuhn, made the trip and reported exciting results.

COACHES CLINIC: Coach and Athletic Director Dick Zury just returned from a two day clinic of coaches from Northern California held in San Francisco. More and more of the Stevenson coaches are attending these "classes" to help improve the already outstanding athletic program under Zury's direction.

MR. RICKLEFS: The morning assembly was brightened this week as Mr. "R" read a few of the standards for entrance to the Mounty Holyoke College some 100 years ago. Some of the items mentioned:

1. No cosmetics, perfumeries or fancy soaps shall be allowed.
2. Every member of the school shall walk at least one mile a day.
3. No student may have male acquaintances unless they are retired missionaries or agents of benevolent societies.
4. No student shall devote more than one hour each week to such miscellaneous readings as the Atlantic Monthly, Shakespeare or Robinson Crusoe.

It might be fair to say that times have changed. Reports next week on team results.

In his newly-appointed capacity he will be concerned with the standards of education in the field of operations research as maintained in American colleges and universities.

If Abraham Lincoln Were Living Today...

In the Spokesman, the weekly bulletin put out by the Rotary Club of Carmel, Stuart Mitchell supplied the following paragraph from the California Freemason.

"Had Abraham Lincoln been living today, the Rotary Club would supply him with a set of books; the Lions Club with a good reading lamp; the Cosmopolitan Club with writing equipment; the Kiwanis Club with a wooden floor for the cabin. He would have the protection of the child labor insurance. A kindly philanthropist would send him to college with a scholarship. Incidentally, a case worker would see that his father received a monthly check. He would receive a subsidy for rail splitting; another one for raising a crop he was going to raise anyway, and still another subsidy for not raising a crop he had no intention of raising. Results: There would have been no Abraham Lincoln."

Violinist Henryk Szeryng Gifted With Power, Staggering Technique

by John Upton

Polish-born violinist Henryk Szeryng, who serenaded Carmel Music Society members and their friends on March 28 at Sunset Center auditorium, is essentially a virtuoso. His playing is not lyrical, and his tone is dry; but he is gifted with great power and a staggering technique.

Szeryng, like the great Heifetz, often seems impatient with the small voice of his instrument. He is willing to sacrifice tonal color and academic neatness for volume, and at times will neglect nuances for the sake of dramatic intensity.

These proclivities were particularly evident last week in the nearly half-hour-long Bach "Partita No. 2 in D Minor" for unaccompanied violin. In the Sarabande, where tenderness and fire are so movingly blended, Szeryng was superb; but in the Chaconne, with its flashy bow work and insistent crescendos, he attacked the double stops and punctuating chords to the point of distortion. This would probably not be disturbing in a briefer composition, but the Chaconne is such a long movement that toward the end many of the audience were stirring uneasily. Perhaps 30 minutes of unrelieved solo violin is simply too much.

Szeryng gave us a spirited reading of the "Sonata in D Major," by Jean-Marie Leclair, giant of the 18th-century violin school. This is spare, delicate music, and the soloist treated it in a pleasingly masculine way. The bouncy Tambourin was particularly charming.

Mexico is Szeryng's adopted homeland, so it seemed fitting that he should give us a work by that country's talented composer, the late Manuel Ponce. His "Short Sonata," in three movements, proved to be an echo of Debussy: pleasant and dramatic enough, but not entirely memorable. Pretty much the same could be said of Brahms' "Sonata No. 1 in G Major." Without the sheer mass of sound provided by a full orchestra, this particular brand of German romanticism seems rather thin today.

With Maurice Ravel's "Tzigane," Szeryng came into his own. In the long, unaccompanied first section, his violin became by turns a flamenco guitar, a Moorish "oud," and a desert flute; it wept and boasted and threatened. This sparkling performance was a tribute to Ravel's genius and to Szeryng's sensitive musicianship.

"Tzigane" was rewarded with thundering applause (coming, as it did, at the end of the concert, it was hard to know whether the audience was delighted with the evening as a whole or with this particular selection); and the soloist acceded with Mozart's Adagio from the "Sonata, K. 481." This was a delight, not only because of Szeryng's meticulous playing, but the jewel-like accompaniment provided by the deft and unruffled Charles Reiner at the piano. Throughout the evening Reiner dealt magically with everything he touched. Accompanists like this are rare and valuable, and we hope that Szeryng treats him handsomely.

Continued applause brought two more encores. The first, Fritz Kreisler's "Tempo di Minuetto," was announced by the soloist as a tribute to the late Austrian-American composer and violinist. Kreisler, whom most of us remember as a fiddle player who recorded semi-popular "light classical" music on Victor Red Seal records, is highly regarded by most violinists as a creative musician and gifted performer. Since his death in 1962 at the ripe age of 87, many of his works have been reappraised by the musical world at large, and have been given an important place in the concert repertoire. The minuet is certainly one of his most delightful compositions, with its cheery 18th-century flavor, and Szeryng played it elegantly.

Kreisler figured in the third encore as well, as author of a violin arrangement of Brahms' "17th Hungarian Dance." Once again, Szeryng showed his remarkable affinity for gypsy music; he is an impressive all-around musician, but here he seems to feel the greatest rapport with his instrument.

Tuesday night's program was not the most exciting of the Carmel Music Society's offerings this season. This was partly true, I think, because the violin, like the guitar and the flute, is a slender reed that does not stand well alone. A truly satisfying evening with the instrument calls for a David Oistrakh, who is literally perfect as a performer, or for a Heifetz, who is not always faultless but remains a towering genius. To hold our undivided attention for two hours, Henryk Szeryng would need a rounder, warmer tone or a more abiding love for the violin with all its inherent shortcomings.

Hunt Race Meet Saturday To Aid Episcopal School

Excitement is mounting over the Hunt Race Meet to be held at Pebble Beach on Saturday. Feature of the afternoon will be the first sanctioned steeplechase held in California or the Western United States. Named "The Spyglass Hill Gentleman's Steeplechase," it will be run over a timber course of about three and one-half miles in length.

The entire event, including "Feast d'Alfresco" a luncheon with cocktails served in an enclosure overlooking the race course; general admission for adults and children; and a refreshment stand for children not attending the gala luncheon party, all will benefit the Mother's Club of All Saints' Day School.

Co-Chairmen for the fund raising project for the school are Mrs. Thomas E. McCullough and Mrs. Jack L. Stein, Jr. Other committee members include Mrs. Howard E. Allen, decorations; Mrs. Donald Schma, program; Mrs. Ralph Thompson, publicity; Mrs. Lawrence Tinder, tickets; Mrs. Wil-

Car Balks at Mexico

Latest news from the Dalais family of Palo Colorado Canyon is that Jennie is now in Alaska with the two boys, Mark and Chris, and is having a "ball" according to her husband Jim.

Jim, who was planning to go to Mexico for the period that Jennie and the boys were gone, has decided not to leave, as his car has broken down about four times. The "straw that broke the camel's back," so to speak, was when he got as far as Oceanside in Southern California and the car broke down again.

"I guess the car just didn't want to go," Jim said.

Associate Joins Renk

Lois Renk of Carmel announces the association with her real estate brokerage firm of Philip Kees Davis, formerly vice president of The Austin Company, the original and largest firm furnishing complete service for the development, design and construction of all types of commercial building projects, both nationally and throughout the world, with headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio.

Davis holds two engineering degrees, is a Fellow of The American Society of Civil Engineers, and has received engineering registration in all 50 of the United States. He owns his home on White Oak Way in Carmel Valley.

ON CORAL SEA

Navy Airman John H. Bihler returned to Alameda aboard the USS Coral Sea, when the attack aircraft carrier completed her second tour of duty in the Vietnam war zone. The 18-year-old Navy man is the son of Mrs. Ellen Bihler of Carmel. He attended Carmel High School, and was employed by Carmel Valley Manor before entering the Navy in 1966. As a member of the Gunnery Division, he is responsible for the safekeeping and handling of ammunition, rockets, and small arms, as well as the assembling of all detonating devices on bombs and rockets.

How much safety do you want for your money?

Financial safety comes in all shapes and sizes. There are safe investments and risky investments—and ones that are in between. Depending upon how much risk you want to take, your money can be invested in a variety of ways.

Your savings, however, are another thing. This is money you do not want to risk—no matter how safe the investment appears. This is money you want to be able to count on at all times and under all conditions. And when you want your money that safe and that available—you want it in the bank.

My Most Interesting Trip

MISAKI

by L. R. Bemis

"Misaki, Misaki," said the smiling bus driver as we wound down the narrow road through Miura City to the sea. It had been a 25-mile bus ride from Yokosuka. The time had passed quickly and pleasantly in the beautiful July weather. The trip had taken us by coast and across country through farmlands and villages to the sea again.

Misaki is the port of the fishing village, Miura City, at the tip of the Miura Peninsula, some 50 miles south of Tokyo. It is off of the beaten path of the tourist and a fine place to buy those glass fishing net floats that so many people are fond of. The town is built around many small bays and inlets. A small island, Jogashima, is located off of the tip of Misaki.

The bus circled around a small park and stopped by the shore. It was the end of the line so all of the passengers debarked. I was the only non-Japanese on the bus.

Roads followed the irregular shoreline. There were the usual small Japanese shops as well as stores specializing in equipment for boats and fishing gear. Soon I came upon large warehouses. Tuna boats were alongside and men were busily engaged in unloading frozen tuna. Some of the fish seemed as big as the fishermen. Past the warehouse district the shore was covered with racks of squid and fish drying in the sun.

Near the warehouses there was a small ferry boat that was loading passengers. It was bound for the island, Jogashima, a short distance away. It appeared to be a beautiful spot so I paid my fare and climbed on board the ferry. Since the trip was only a couple of blocks or so we were soon there.

Near the landing on Jogashima a dozen or so Japanese tourists were posing for a picture. They seemed like a good group so I stood near the photographer and took a picture of them, too. They seemed to think that this was a very fine idea. Then they insisted that I join the group and be in a picture with them. I was happy to oblige. When the pictures had been taken I left the group amid many smiles, handwavings and bows.

The shoreline of Jogashima was very beautiful, being somewhat similar to the rocky parts of Point Lobos. I took quite a few pictures as I followed the path around the island. Small eating places were scattered along the path at some of the more scenic spots.

It was now lunchtime and all the walking had stimulated my appetite, so I went into a likely place to eat. It became quickly apparent that the lady proprietor's command of English was just as nonexistent as my ability in the Japanese language. The solution was that I went into the kitchen and pointed to some rice and other familiar looking food. Soon after I had returned to the table the food was brought in.

I picked up the chopsticks and eagerly began to eat. The lunch was delicious and I was pleased with it, but for some reason the proprietress was highly amused with my eating efforts. I personally thought that I was performing like an old hand in the far east. The lady disappeared in the kitchen and then quickly returned, handing me a spoon that must have been at least a foot long. This was admittedly a blow to my pride, but in all fairness it must be said that the spoon made it much easier and simpler to eat, so I used it.

After lunch I walked the rest of the way around the island, boarded the ferry and returned to Misaki. There I was invited aboard to look at one of the tuna boats. I took some pictures and indicated to the crewman my pleasure at visiting them and their boat.

A little bit farther along the dock I heard music. I followed the sound to its source and found a tuna boat about ready to get underway. There was a good crowd alongside at the dock. Several priests were giving blessings. Dozens of paper streamers connected those on the boat to their friends and family on the shore. Then, to the recorded strains of "Auld Lang Syne" the boat got underway. For sure, the farewell ceremony was an unusual combination of the east and the west.

By now the day was waning so I started shopping for glass net floats. The tuna boats had the real big green glass floats but they were not for sale. I tried buying floats in several of the marine supply shops but the merchants indicated that they didn't have any. Finally, in a store near the bus stop, I found some net floats. The man had them in almost every size and color, and the prices were most reasonable. I purchased a good portable supply of red, blue, yellow and purple floats.

As I remember it the red floats were the most expensive. In fact, after some 13 years of searching for net floats, I am convinced that the bottle green and blue green net floats are used for fishing. The other colors are used for catching tourists and decorators. Some people even claim that the purple floats are reserved for fishing for the kitchens of the Imperial household. I am of the belief that this is one of the many charming and unsubstantiated fables that brighten but don't enlighten the world we live in.

The bus trip back to Yokosuka was not uneventful. At the approaches to a small village the bus came to an abrupt halt. On the road in front of us was a festival parade. First of all there was a large float pulled by nearly 100 children. This was followed by a group of singing and chanting men carrying a portable Shinto shrine

April Busy Time For L'Alliance Francaise

April starts for L'Alliance Francaise with the dinner in honor of the consul general from France to San Francisco, Claude Batault, and Mrs. Batault sponsored by the Alliance tonight.

On April 14 at 3 p.m., Mrs. W. Gibb Hatch has invited members of L'Alliance to a French Conversation-Tea to take place at her residence, 63 Rancho Road, Carmel Valley. For reservations, telephone Mrs. James Hathaway (372-1138) or Mrs. Russell Cadle (375-9242).

On April 26, the Mark Thomas Inn will present another of its series of International Nights. This time it will be "April in Paris" with a no-host cocktail hour starting at 6:30 p.m. and a gourmet French dinner following in the Terrace Room. Members of the Alliance Francaise of the Monterey Peninsula are urged to bring their friends and to sit together for this gala occasion. Special French appetizers, food, decorations, music and entertainment are planned for this gay Parisian soiree. For reservations, telephone early to the reservations manager, Mark Thomas Inn (372-8161) and specify a desire to be seated at the special Alliance tables.

Looking ahead to the annual Alliance kermess (bazaar) for the benefit of its French language scholarship fund, this popular event will take place on May 13 in Carmel. Details will be announced later. In the meantime everyone is asked to collect such items as attractive aprons, children's toys and clothes (new) and other really nice household items. No worn clothing please. As always homebaked pastries and preserves and other food specialties will be donated, as well as plants, garden tools and objets d'art. For information telephone the general chairman of the bazaar, Mrs. Henri Corbat (624-5634) or Mrs. Russell Cadle (375-9242).

(Omikoshi). The men carrying the shrine surged along, swinging violently from one side of the road to the other. For a moment it looked as if they would ram into the bus with the shrine, but they veered off at the last possible second, ami' shouts and laughter.

When I got back aboard ship at Yokosuka that night I was tired and sunburned, and laden with net floats, camera and memories. It had been a most enjoyable day and one that I will always remember. In fact I still have the net floats and photographs to help remind me. It is a good thing too, because I was in Misaki four years ago and it had changed. I couldn't find any net floats for sale and Jogashima is now connected to the mainland by a big concrete bridge.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

Our subscription has started to the weekly news edition of the New York Times in large type. It looks great. If you know anyone who is irked by the type size of the average newspaper, tell him about this large type edition. It is a digest of news of the week. We have it in a plastic folder to keep it from being lost in the welter of papers and magazines in the reading room. Look for it. And welter is the right word to use in this case. What most people do to a reading room makes it look like recess time in a kindergarten.

From Oscar Lewis, author of the Children of Sanchez and many other books, comes another anthropological study called LA VIDA. This is the story of the Rios family of Puerto Rico, with each member of the family telling his own story in his own words. Lewis calls the book a study in poverty.

THE COMPLETE BOOK OF MODEL AIRCRAFT, SPACECRAFT, AND ROCKETS is the title of a book by Louis Hertz which was decidedly not written with small children in mind. The hobby of building model planes is for the more adult mind, and the text and illustrations of this book prove this is so. Part of the book is historical and shows pictures of models made as early as 1809. And you thought the Wright brothers . . .

This seems to be a good time of year to bring out a book on the Internal Revenue Service and this is just what Coward-McCann has done. Subtitled A Report to the Taxpayer, the book is called INSIDE INTERNAL REVENUE and it was written by William Surface. The author calls Americans "the world's most obedient taxpayers." Obedient we may be, but we yell a lot. The book is full of examples of persons who evaded taxes some way and were caught. It all adds up to the old adage "Don't try to flim-flam the U.S. Government."

Justice Louis Brandeis has said "Crime is contagious. If the Government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means — to declare that the Government may commit crimes in order to secure the conviction of a private criminal — would bring retribution." This is the premise of a book by Ed Cray which is entitled THE BIG BLUE LINE. It is an urgent report to the American people on police brutality and police methods in this country. These are subjects treated in our newspapers today and are the reason for complaints often mentioned in the papers. The book names names and places and has the ring of authenticity. It will make a law-abiding person more than a little sick and anyone with a police record will be even more sick than that.

THE WIZARD'S CHILD is by Helga Sandburg and is a book which defies the annotation writer. It is utterly charming, sensitive, direct, and guileless. It is the story of Marn Coombs, her mother Mrs. Coombs, and her father who could conjure up ghosts and was always called Wizard. They lived in the North Carolina mountain region and this is their story.

Because of the propensity of Carmel people for taking long trips, this library has more travel books than is customary in so small an institution. Comes now a new one for those who are aiming toward Mexico and it is called John Wilhelm's GUIDE TO MEXICO. There is a world of useful information here and seemingly an almost endless list of towns and just what accommodations are there and how much the cost will be.

Stuart Cloete has a new novel called THE ABDUCTORS. It is a tale of Victorian England and the appalling white slave trade which went on in those days. The writing style is Victorian also, and the facts seem to be valid because the book ends with a section of newspaper clippings reproduced and other testimony. It seems hard to believe and certainly it is not pretty to read. The book jacket says it is a disquieting book. It is that.

CARMEL VALLEY WEDDING

Gretha Cecille Kippens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Kippens of Carmel, became the bride of Ronald Lee Koontz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Koontz of Carmel Valley, in a 3 p.m. ceremony on March 25 in the First Baptist Church of Carmel Valley. The service was conducted by Reverend Ned H. Holmgren.

Gretha wore a floor length gown of white satin with lace on the bodice and chapel length train. Her veil was held by a small pill box hat studded with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby pink roses.

The maid of honor was Karen Koontz, sister of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids were Candy Heaviside of Carmel Valley and Carla Lennox of Monterey. They were dressed in pink satin dresses trimmed with lace. The flower girl was Connie May Padgett, a cousin of the bridegroom.

The best man was Dan Silveria of King City and the ringbearer was Michel Terry of Salinas, a cousin of the bridegroom. Ushers were Kris and Alan Koontz, Ronald's brothers.

Mrs. G. L. Padgett of Palm Springs, maternal grandmother, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Koontz of Salinas, paternal grandparents of the bridegroom, attended the service. The reception took place in the Carmel Valley home of Mr. and Mrs. Koontz with over 150 people attending.

Both Gretha and Ronald attended Carmel High School and he is now in the U.S. Marines stationed at Camp Pendleton in Southern California. They will be making their new home in Oceanside.

Propaganda is often difficult to detect, like the colorless and odorless carbon monoxide present in increasing amounts in city air. Yet, one of the most disturbing aspects of the current American scene is the steady march of propaganda in the press and on radio-TV, all disguised as free speech or in promotion of what seems to be greater freedom for the common man.

The Berkeley disturbances on "free speech" are cases in point. Actually not free speech but a fancied right to propagandize was the crux of the issue. Victory was handed the dissidents on a platter when the news media broadcast the alleged "grievances" to the world. Similarly, the shocking carryings-on of the Fulbright-Morse inquiries, when beamed to Europe and Asia and accompanied by the juicy comments of local moderators, did more to damage U.S. interests abroad than could ever be countered by years of Radio-free Europe.

The right of free speech is to say one's mind at any political gathering or to vote one's conscience. It does not involve any right to utilize country or world-wide broadcast services to express disagreement with the announced policy of one's own country.

Unfortunately, the selection of what is propaganda and what is news is the responsibility of editors. But in other days when the press was really free and not the captive of ideologically minded editors, the latter were careful to avoid giving free publicity to "press agents," regardless of what might have been their cause. Today any odd-ball, and the odder the better, is given a hearing on the grounds that this sells the paper, despite the fact that the views tend to destroy the credibility of the United States as a world power. We are flooded with left-wing, "dove" propaganda, wholly illogical, that, not only pulls the rug out from under the troops in Vietnam but prolongs a conflict it allegedly seeks to halt.

The build-up of Castro and the pulling down of Diem, the opposition to all professional military advice and the playing up of the asinine reports of Harrison Salisbury, all on the part of the New York Times, have gone far to destroy the reputation of a once-great newspaper. The Cronkite efforts to slander the GIs in Vietnam by "atrocity" broadcasts were immediately challenged. But these are nothing when compared with the daily barrages of allegedly "liberal" propaganda. Who pays for this? Whoever it is apparently believes in Lenin's axiom of wearing down the masses.

We can be free of this menace by recognizing propaganda for what it is and complaining to those who sell papers. The New York Times situation is a hopeful beginning.

Honorable Ronald Reagan
Governor of the State of California
Sacramento, California

Dear Governor:

As a citizen who voted for you, contributed to your campaign, and one who will continue to support your efforts to restore fiscal responsibility to our State of California, I wish to call your attention to a situation in Big Sur which seems wasteful.

Just south of the Pfeiffer Big Sur Park is the Pfeiffer Canyon Bridge. This is a redwood and concrete bridge apparently in excellent condition. Last week I noticed the survey flags and markings nearby on the highway and was informed by one of the workers that the bridge was to be replaced.

There appears to be no justification for doing so, unless this is another "make work" program of the State Highway Department. If so, and if this is a pattern throughout the state, a great deal of money could be saved by curtailing such projects until there is a need.

I would appreciate a response to this letter.

Respectfully,
William H. Pentony
Drawer C. Carmel

Editor's Note: The California Division of Highways will open bids on this construction in Sacramento on April 19. Approximately $370,000 is available for the project.

Applied Conservation Philosophy

by Sterling Mummert

A large share of this nation's portioned portion of conservation medicine was derived from European sources. To suggest that such an apparently healthy virile Paul Bunyan was racked with ailments might be regarded as an affront to our economic heritage. Much depends on one's point of entrance or view.

During World War I an American lumbering unit of the U.S. Army was turned loose in one of the well cultivated forests of France. They ripped and tore into a forest environment of many centuries with a reckless abandon acquired through the clear cut and clear out era of private woods enterprise practiced here over a continental extent. The French foresters labelled our woodsmen, "a bunch of barbarians," which they considered a mild statement of the case. Our experts thought this term so immoderate that the account was suppressed into dormancy for many years.

Reference to this core of forest lore is not made to set up a concatenation (chain) of condemnation excursions into past lumbering practices. Americans have learned and applied much long range forestry since our confrontation with European professional standards in this field. In addition to medicinal treatments, surgery and psychology have been accorded this giant Bunyan so that he has developed into a well adjusted, cultured and productive segment of our economic society. Our foresters are very proud of him.

I have cited the above to open an article about conservation of and for Carmel-by-the-Sea because of the high esthetic sense felt here for native pines and oaks plus the many exotic plants grown in this favored site. Sound forest conservation practices can be applied to wooded areas directed to yield continual lumber crops or permanent auras of natural beauty.

For it is evident that in our projective applied science society nature, for the most part, must yield to mankind. It will be of increased importance for all to have the yields or end results determined by applied quality control, whether we live in cities or rural areas; whether we live in or visit spreads of acquired native attractiveness.

During my seven years of serving the Carmel Valley Soil Conservation District efforts were made to help property owners of holdings from one to many thousands of acres, although ours is an agricultural agency. With a continual conversion of prime level farm lands to homesites it was hard to tell where ranching stopped and town life began. This was especially the case along many stretches of the Carmel River subject to "infrequent inundations." On one side of the river would be a ranch; on the other a group of houses—all likely to be flooded. Under this evident duress it was possible to get all classes of interested owners to cooperate for mutual benefits.

Our educational program was designed to include all Peninsula urban areas. I gave conservation colored slide talks to many service, church, school and other groups in Carmel where there was considerable concern shown for agricultural affairs in general and soil conservation in particular. Continual yields of good farm crops on soil that retains its fertility over years of use is of important interest to city dwellers as it is of prime concern to farmers. Where it is not possible to have a comity of regard it is often within range to have a unity of purpose.

This is particularly true where water supplies enter the picture, or arena: It is idle to speculate as to who needs water the most. The important thing is where the most water is needed. To determine this need and then find means to fill it will take the best available facets of private initiative and public enterprise of this area.

Sterling D. Mummert — writer of the Pine Cone's conservation column, above, began work in conservation as a tree surgeon in eastern states. Later he graduated in forest utilization from New York State College of Forestry in Syracuse, New York. During college vacations he continued his tree expert work. Mummert was in

The Complete Gardener

... a regular diet of information having to do with plants

Along about now we start to think about the displays of color we're going to have in containers this summer. By observing a few basic cultural rules you may have your own floral ballet... with fuchsias. Along the coast these plants bloom most of the year, but inland, where it gets colder and hotter, we must give fuchsias more attention.

Despite claims printed on some planting mix bags none of these products, alone, can furnish a proper medium for fuchsias. These plants need a fertile, well-drained soil containing a fair amount of humus and no lime. If you use the commercially-marketed fortified potting soil all you will need to add is 0-10-10. By volume, add one cupful per peck of soil. By weight, mix 2 cupfuls into 25 pounds. If you are going to make a planting mix take 2 parts sandy loam, 1 part coarse sand or surface, and 2 parts of oak leaf mold. To a wheelbarrow of this add 2½ lbs. of cottonseed meal. If you're in alkali water country (Santa Clara and San Benito Counties, and Salinas Valley) add a cupful of soil sulphur. Mix well, moisten, and allow to stand for a week before using it.

Your nursery will have a variety of small fuchsias, in liners, labeled as to name, color, and "Up" for upright, or "Tr" for trailing. The latter are for hanging baskets. While your containers are being prepared and the potting medium is mellowing your little plants can be encouraged to grow. Don't let them get dry. At this stage some pinching can be done if the plants are leggy. Just nip off the pair of leaves at the tip of each stem. This promotes branching, budding, and a "fuller fuchsia fuller blooms." As the air becomes milder you can transfer your plants into their permanent containers and increase the feeding. If the level of nutrient becomes too low growth will slow down. Keep fuchsias growing vigorously. A blue planting tablet at root level will maintain a good level for a full growing season.

Location is important and your locality decides this. Along the coast foggy summers permit fuchsias to be placed almost anywhere. Inland they must be protected against the heat. Give them early morning or late afternoon sun. Never noonday sun or full shade. Lath, spaced ¼" apart provides a good sun filter. The best temperature is between 50 and 70 degrees. In hot, dry weather a misting with water in the afternoon. Also hose down the immediate area to moisten the air. Right now, feed often and pinch regularly until buds form along the branches. A month later your plants will be loaded with bloom.

Next week we'll attempt to put your soil into the proper condition.

BEST WESTERN MOTEL CONVENTION HERE

About 100 delegates to the convention of the Northern California District of Best Western Motels met on the Monterey Peninsula on March 29 and 30. Delegates from California, Oregon, Arizona and Nevada attended a cocktail party given by the five Best Western Motels on the Peninsula at the Beach Club and followed by a dinner dance.

District Governor R. C. Grialou of San Francisco presided over the business meeting at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. H. R. Fonseca is the local Best Western chairman and convention headquarters were at his motel, the Jade Tree Inn in Carmel.

Lyceum Program Gives Gifted Youngsters Zest For Learning, Speaker Informs Rotary Club

by Margot Hyatt

Captain Ralph Arndt (USN Ret.) was the featured speaker at Carmel Rotary Club's March 28 luncheon meeting. He is a member of the board of directors of The Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula and talked about this organization for gifted students. To begin with, he had three Lyceum students play as a trumpet combo with piano accompaniment by Robert Forbes. The students were Gregory Sprung and Gregory Stegeman of Carmel High School and Steve Moulton of Pacific Grove High School. Commander L. R. Bemis (USN Ret.) of Catlin Realty directed this program.

This is the story on the Lyceum.

How to detect genuine talent in one's child and how best to encourage it is a problem which besets many a Carmel parent.

Is this great interest he shows a true bent or is it just a passing fancy? How can habits of good workmanship and effort, without which his talents will be wasted, be fostered? Where is the dividing line between the right amount of encouragement and the child's feeling that he is being loaded with too much responsibility to succeed? At what point will he react in a hostile way to what he thinks are efforts to manipulate him? How can we motivate soon enough the child who is handicapped by his own lethargy, who is easily distracted?

Will the discipline necessary for the mastery of a musical instrument make him feel different and set him apart from his fellows? How will he react to being called "egghead" or "brain" in his age group?

Some of these problems are now being met by the Carmel Unified School District in its individualized and nongraded approach to education. If a child can proceed at his own pace, or in his own track, he will not feel out of place in a group of various ages; he will not be forced to pay attention while slow children are drilled in something he already knows.

The problem of motivation is being met in many different ways by a voluntary association of men and women, called the Lyceum. The 30 directors of this organization, founded in 1960 by Mrs. Carl Hering, of Monterey, meet once a week to plan seminars, conferences, and workshops in the arts, sciences and humanities. These extra-curricular opportunities bring together talented adults and students with high ability and promise who have a zest for learning. Students are nominated by schools, private and public, and then chosen by a selection committee.

One of the programs of which the Lyceum is particularly proud is its summer music camp held at Asilomar in conjunction with the American Symphony Orchestra League's conductors workshop. Last summer there were 20 talented youngsters in the three-week camp for which the Lyceum hires a professional music director. The students receive background information, history, theory, group instruction, and a minimum of four private lessons from a top professional musician. What is most meaningful to the students is probably the opportunity to "sit in" with the symphony orchestra.

This program, not inexpensive, was made possible by a $2,000 grant from the Monterey Jazz Festival and other contributors such as the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, the Bing Crosby Youth Fund and the public.

This Spring there will be a seminar in medicine for five evenings at Community Hospital for eligible ninth grade students. The role of the pediatrician, the internist, the neurologist and neurosurgeon and the psychiatrist will be explained by specialists in these fields. The boys and girls will be allowed in the operating room and laboratory to participate in a simulated operation and demonstration of lab techniques.

There will be an engineering and science seminar for eligible high school and junior college students in which electrical, mechanical, and nuclear engineering fields will be explored by U.S. Naval Postgraduate School professors. Meteorology and oceanography will also be covered as well as physics and biochemistry. A field trip to Stanford University for a technical briefing and conducted tour of the Linear Accelerator Center and radio-science field site will take place.

"Science in the Backyard" is the title of a series of Saturday morning walking trips for sixth grade boys and girls of high ability and interest given by a naval officer assisted by guest scientists. Students will practice creative and critical thinking and the art of scientific investigation.

The field of law will be explored by qualified tenth grade students with a local judge, district attorney, criminal defense attorney and other lawyers participating.

The Lyceum has a German language program for third and fourth graders taught by Defense Language Institute instructors.

Four hundred sets of the Junior Great Books have been ordered by the Lyceum for Peninsula students who meet in small informal discussion groups led by specially trained leaders. One of these at Monterey Public Library is being led by Priscilla Nesbitt of Carmel Middle School and another leader.

A contemporary religious seminar for interested eleventh grade students is being held at Monterey Peninsula College. Reverend David Hill of All Saints' Episcopal Church is one of the participants.

Over 4,500 selected students have participated in Lyceum programs since 1960. Over 400 artists, architects, doctors, linguists and specialists in other fields have donated their services in a broad spectrum of subjects.

Even in Carmel, where there is such a high proportion of highly gifted people and families of culturally rich background, it has proved necessary to band together with other such people in neighboring communities to provide the incentives, the inspiration, and the companionship which talented boys and girls need if they are not to feel different and alone in their pursuit of excellence.

"The common achievement factor for all these young people is the feeling of love and security from the family at home," according to the Lyceum's founder, Vera M. Hering, "parents assisting by boosting and helping." Office hours on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays are from noon to 4 p.m. on the grounds of Carmel Convalescent Hospital. The Lyceum telephone number is 624-2403.

CARMEL RESIDENT IS CHEST CHAIRMAN

George Dujmovich, manager of the Wells Fargo Bank in Seaside, has been appointed chairman of the newly created employee division for the 1967-68 campaign of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest, according to Frank J. Caulfield, campaign chairman.

Dujmovich has been active in prior Community Chest campaigns and other civic activities. He is a 1952 graduate of San Jose State College and resides in Carmel with his wife, Frances, and their six-year-old daughter, Lynne.

"Toccata" that was like a forest of interweaving fugal themes. This is the kind of music that takes some getting used to; but one finds himself wanting to hear it again, if only to see if he heard what he thought he heard.

Conductor Gosling also gave us a spirited reading of Brahms' "Tragic Overture," that rather melodramatic bit of chest-beating that can still charm us with its emotional sweep and superb orchestration.

For those who were unable to attend (or for those who would like to think a little more about Dr. Harlan's opus), the entire program will be broadcast from tape by KMBY-FM this coming Sunday at 8 p.m.

felt that he showed unusual promise.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Bob, who is well known as a football player at both Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College. He is now in the Army and home on leave en route to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he is to enter Officer Candidate School.

Before enlisting in the Marine Corps in February of 1966, Larry had worked at Domenici's and the June Simpson restaurant.

ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY

Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, a well known resident of Carmel for the past 47 years, died Sunday in a local hospital after a brief illness.

Miss Montgomery was born in Quincy, Illinois on December 5, 1884.

In 1920, with her sister Eleanor and their mother, the late Mrs. Agnes Montgomery, she came to establish a home in Carmel. For many years Miss Montgomery served as secretary for the late Doctor D. T. MacDougal.

When the Manor was opened in Carmel Valley, the Montgomery sisters took up residence there. In addition to her sister, Miss Eleanor Montgomery, survivors include another sister, Mrs. Douglas Carter of Carmel; a brother, Frederick H. Montgomery of Hemet; and a nephew, Richard Carter of Brentwood, Los Angeles.

Private services have been held. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.
